

Two people, a man and a woman, are looking at a display on a table in the background. The man is wearing a dark jacket and glasses, and the woman is wearing a dark jacket and a headscarf.

A white rectangular pedestal holds a display of numerous small, woven baskets or containers arranged in a grid pattern.

A wooden table on sawhorses displays a rolled-up scroll or document, a small white container, and other objects.

A wooden table on sawhorses displays several rolled-up scrolls or documents, some with decorative elements.

A wooden table on sawhorses displays several rolled-up scrolls or documents, some with decorative elements.

Informational posters or displays are visible on the wall in the background.

Two vertical panels of architectural information are positioned against a stone pillar. The left panel contains several small diagrams and technical drawings. The right panel features a larger photograph of a structure, a grid of smaller images, and blocks of text.

A table in the foreground holds architectural drawings and a physical model. The model consists of a long metal track with a sliding mechanism and a small wire mesh cage. The drawings include floor plans and technical diagrams.

A large, curved wooden structure with a grid-like frame is the central focus. It has a corrugated metal cylinder attached to its side. A wooden chair is placed inside the structure. The man is standing near this structure, looking towards it.

In the background, there are several tables with architectural models and drawings. A large window on the left provides natural light. A small table with a laptop and other items is also visible.